

Dream

As I lay my head upon the pillow I close my eyes, to see a world in all its glory as it was meant to be.

*With men from all the races living happily together,
for the entire world to see,
helping all the people to live life, as it should be.*

*To friend or a stranger,
black or white or even green,
to live in peace is what we all dream.*

For in our hearts there is a spark to make this dream come true.

If only we could open our eyes and see this world as well.
