

The Light

*When I begin to drift to sleep its then I see the light.
If only it would stay and sweep away the night,
its faith and love that brings the light so full of love,
its always there for us to see when our heart and mind is right,
sleep tight.*